

Dr. Wolfram Römhild (born in 1967)

Dr. oec. publ., Business Administration

Dr. Wolfram Römhild studied Business Administration at the LMU Munich (Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München), where he received his doctorate in economics in 1995. Subsequently, Wolfram Römhild was Associate Principal at McKinsey and founder and CEO of R & R Software.

Since 2003, Dr. Wolfram Römhild has been Managing Director in the Munich office of goetzpartners Management Consultants and Head of Industrials & Automotive. He is responsible for strategy and growth practice as well as for the automotive and industrial sectors, where he has supported numerous top management teams and financial investors. His focus is on management consulting and development as well as acquisition integration.

Special knowledge and experience for Supervisory Board activities at euromicron AG:

As a strong business development professional, Dr. Wolfram Römhild has a track record in digital strategy and transformation, commercial due diligence, portfolio strategy and large-scale transformation. His special qualifications lie in the areas of strategy for digital platforms, strategy consulting, private equity, corporate finance, IoT and digital service strategies.

Further mandates in statutory Supervisory Boards:

none

Nationality: German